

Field Archery Advisory Group

Vacancy for a member of the Field Archery Advisory Group (FAAG)

The FAAG, formally known as the Field Committee, are looking for an additional member of the group.

Following the appointment of John Hartfield to the position of Chairman there is now a vacancy on the FAAG and applications are sought from archers to participate in this group.

The current Advisory Group has 4 members with the following profiles;

- John Hartfield is based in England, shoots Recurve and Compound
- Jonathan Shales is based in England and has represented UK very frequently over the last 25 years shooting Recurve
- Tracey Hill lives in Wales and has represented UK frequently over the last 10 years shooting Compound
- Robert Nesbitt is located in Northern Ireland and represents the views of the archers in that region

Ideally the additional person will have attributes and experiences that complement the existing FAAG members and will provide valuable input into the views and direction of the group for representation to Archery GB.

The group provides input and guidance to the Archery GB organisation on all matters concerning Field archery including criteria for UK team representation, training events, recommendation on rules and general operating requirements for the sport. It also acts as an interface between the archers participating in the sport and the governing body, questions and issues can be raised with the group by emailing the chairman of the FAAG.

The competencies that we are looking for in this role are identified below;

Values Competencies	Management Competencies	Specific Competencies
Honesty and integrity	Decision making	A commitment to Field Archery development
Archery GB shared values and ethics	Problem-solving	Extensive knowledge of Field Archery gained through participation
Enthusiasm, passion and determination	Meeting deadlines	Experience in Representing UK at National or international Field events
Develops others	Verbal and written communication skills	A commitment to diversity
Team-working	Ability to speak and participate in meetings	Passionate about Field Archery and its development
Reliability Flexibility and Adaptability	IT skills	Regularly communicates with other Field Archers to seek feedback and input into the

Values Competencies	Management Competencies	Specific Competencies
		sport
Comfortable with change	Planning & Time management
A commitment to the Archery GB brand	Reporting and administration
Trustworthy	Works well under pressure

Please send your application together with an Archery CV to Chairman.fieldarchery@archerygb.org

John Hartfield

Chairman Field Archery Advisory Group